£1m SPENT ON SCRAPPED PLAN

Report by Peter Madeley

SCHOOLS in Dudley borough have spent more than £1 million upgrading kitchens, in readiness for a Government scheme to offer universal free meals, which has since been scrapped.

Figures from a Freedom of Information request show that infant schools in Dudley shelled out £1,068,320 to meet the Government's universal free school meals pledge.

The School Food Plan was brought in by the Coalition Government but is set to be cancelled and replaced with a scheme offering free breakfasts for all primary schoolchildren, according to plans revealed in the Conservative manifesto.

Critics have hit out over the decision, with Labour's Dudley North candidate Ian Austin saying it will leave local families and schools out of pocket. He said: "This is yet another U-turn from the Government that will cost Dudley £1m that could have been spent on educating our children."

The figures show the Government spent £437,477 in Dudley through the Universal Infant Free School Meal Capital Grant, with schools providing match funding.

Capacity

When the scheme was first announced thousands of schools around the country did not have kitchen capacity to deal with the extra meals for pupils and were forced to upgrade.

Netherton Church of England Primary spent £243,221, while Tenterfields Primary in Halesowen spent £160,869, and St Edmund and St John in Beechwood Road spent £131,614.

Mr Austin, who has vowed to fight for free school meals if he is re-elected, added: "It's bad enough that local children will miss out on free school meals, but this £1m could have helped plug the £18m drop in Government funding for Dudley schools that could result in a loss of 496 teachers by 2019."

Government figures show that the decision to scrap free school meals for infant school pupils will affect nearly 10,808 youngsters across Dudley, leaving families £450 worse off every year.

Other Dudley schools that spent on the universal free school meals programme include: Blanford Mere Primary, Kingswinford - £54,475; Peters Hill Primary, Brierley Hill - £32,623; Gig Mill Primary, Stourbridge - £29,714; Ridge Primary, Stourbridge - £24,670; Lutley Primary, Halesowen - £17,316; Ham Dingle Primary, Stourbridge - £14,499; Mount Pleasant Primary, Brierley Hill - £13,139.

DUNCAN'S EARLY DAYS RECREATED FOR A FILM

Filming The Boy who Had It All at the Black Country Living Museum in Dudley with Callum Hay as the young Duncan Edwards

SCENES for a film about the life of Dudley's football legend Duncan Edwards have been shot at the Black Country Living Museum.

The cast and crew of The Boy Who Had It All - along with around 100 extras - descended on the tourist attraction on Monday.

The project is the brainchild of Dudley filmmaker Marcus Distant who is hoping to create a finished film of between 10 to 13 minutes long, which will be uploaded to YouTube.

Filming began last year with several scenes shot at Dudley Cemetery on Stourbridge Road.

This week at the Black Country Living Museum the cameras were rolling by the canal and youngster Cameron Hay was portraying the Manchester United and England hero in his formative years.

Mr Distant, said: "The film starts off a bit like Titanic, in the 'present', and then goes back in time.

"We filmed last year at his graveside and by his statue and that will all be in the 'present' time. The stuff we are doing here at the Black Country Living Museum will be like a memory.

"We have got about 100 extras that we are going to film to try and recreate Dudley town in the 1940s."

Mr Distant added that filming at the site would take around one day and the film could be screened for the first time in August.

The project itself has come about thanks to a crowdfunding campaign which raised £5,000.

The writer and director spent more than a year conducting in depth research about the player, who died of injuries sustained in the 1958 Munich air disaster.

MISSING

Graves exhumed in search for Natalie

DETECTIVES investigating the 2003 disappearance of teenage Dudley mother Natalie Putt were on Tuesday exhuming several graves in a bid to establish what happened to her.

Police say 'new information' has led them to begin digging up 'a number of graves' at Ruiton Cemetery off Duke Street in Upper Gornal.

Natalie, 17, left behind her 11-week-old son, Rhys, when she left her home in Thornleigh, Lower Gornal, to go to a shop in September 2003. She has not been seen since.

Police carried out searches of land, rivers and lakes, after her disappearance.

Detective Inspector Ian Liffie, of West Midlands Police's cold case review team, said: "All cases are periodically reviewed and the disappearance of Natalie has led us to believe that we are looking at a murder enquiry.

"We have had no positive sightings of Natalie in all these years and there has never been any financial activity connected to her bank accounts or any access to health services across the country, which points to the fact that she is no longer alive.

"Following a review of the information we have received, we have been granted permission to exhume a number of graves in Ruiton Cemetery, off Duke Street, in Upper Gornal.

"We also believe that at least two people know what has led us to this site and they may have further information which could assist our search. We would very much like to hear from them."

COURT

Police found the body of 17-year-old Miss Bills at the Highgate Road flat.

Foster was remanded in custody to appear at Wolverhampton Crown Court on June 21.

Thief on ladder to climb fence

A THIEF broke into a family business and caused £1,000 of damage. Police have launched an investigation after a thief was caught on camera breaking into Howells Patent Glazing in Cradley Heath.

A person could be seen climbing up a set of ladders to make off over a wall with a jet-washer in their hand. The incident took place on Bank Holiday Monday at 11.54am.

Tracey Jackson, who runs the firm alongside her family, says the thief caused around £1,000 of damage and stole two sat nav systems.

The firm has now tightened security at the Woods Lane site.

Ms Jackson said: "We have become more vigilant and have put protective measures in place as a safeguard."

"It was really upsetting to see someone breaking into our business. We have been at the site since 2008 and it is the first time something like this has happened."

Staff members were alerted to the break-in the following morning after they found the washer hanging off the fence, because the thief had been unsuccessful in his attempt to steal it.

The thief also broke into two vans and stole two sat navs, damaging the doors and windows of the vehicles in the process.

"You feel violated that someone wants to come into your business and take things," said Ms Jackson.

"Our jet-washer is broken, the doors to the vans are broken and the windows were smashed. We believe over £1,000 worth of damage was caused."

The glazing business has operated for almost 50 years.

Police are investigating the incident.

Pub food bosses fined after 20 diners made ill

PUB food bosses have been slapped with a court bill totalling almost £4,000 after a carvery left 20 customers with food poisoning.

A 94-year-old woman and several children were among those poisoned after eating a carvery at Park Lane Tavern in Park Lane, Cradley.

The food operator at the pub, IP Carvery, made a formal public apology during a hearing at Wolverhampton Magistrates' Court, which heard that all the affected customers had eaten in a two-hour slot at the pub.

The court was told how all 20 customers had suffered Clostridium Perfringens food poisoning, - a bug associated with the inadequate cooling of meat.

Two leftover samples of turkey taken home by the customers were found to be contaminated with the bacteria, following the carvery on April 2 last year.

IP Carvery Ltd told the court that the company now employ a food safety expert, who regularly inspects the company's premises and ensures that workers have been retrained.

Unsafe

The firm pleaded guilty in court to an offence of placing unsafe food on the market in a case brought by Dudley Council.

The company was fined £1,350 and ordered to pay costs of £2,483.55 to Dudley Council, plus a victim surcharge of £120.

It is understood that the company's insurers have also received compensation claims on behalf of affected customers.

Nick Powell, head of environmental health at the council, said: "Serious food safety errors were made in this case, which put the health of customers at risk and caused illness in 20 people, who fortunately recovered. It could have been far worse as young children and the elderly are often more severely affected by food poisoning."

"While we prefer to work with businesses to secure compliance with the law, we will not hesitate to take legal action against the minority of food businesses proprietors who fail to meet their legal responsibilities and put public health at risk as a result."

The pub has been approached for comment.

Right Royal display of vintage vehicles

Prince Alexander, Diane Fenwick-Wilson, Keith Smith, Princess Corinna zu Sayn-Wittgenstein and Anthony Fenwick-Wilson at Ludstone Hall's open day and classic car show

IT was a right Royal affair as a classic car show was held in the grounds of Ludstone Hall opened by two special guests.

The event was at the annual open day at Ludstone Hall in Claverley, raising money for All Saints Church in Claverley. Hundreds of people attended on Saturday for the event opened by Princess Corinna zu Sayn-Wittgenstein and her son Prince Alexander.

The Princess said: "As we have recently moved to the area, we wanted to show our support to the community that has so warmly welcomed us. It is extremely important to us that we are here. We want to extend our thanks to all the people that have come out today."

More than 40 classic cars were on display at the event, from a 1909 Cadillac to a 1926 Sunbeam sports and a 1950s F1 Cooper. Tony Hickling, 77, of Swindon, displayed his 1926 Bean 14 car. Bean Cars were made by A Harper Sons & Bean Ltd at factories in Dudley and Cosely.

Chris Read, 67, of Stourbridge, was displaying his Triumph TR2 1954. He said: "I think the West Midlands has a lot to be proud of in terms of its history and heritage in the motoring industry."

Ludstone Hall was bought by Poundland founder Keith Smith in 1997 who has been holding annual open events at the £2 million mansion ever since.

Anthony Fenwick-Wilson, who organised the event, drove the royals to the hall in his classic Bentley.

TB concern for patients revealed by health bosses

DOZENS of patients have been contacted over fears they could have contracted tuberculosis at Russells Hall Hospital.

A patient was diagnosed as having the highly contagious disease after spending time on a surgical ward with other people.

A further 36 people were contacted by Russells Hall so they can be checked for TB.

Chief executive of the Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust, Diane Wake, said: "A patient contracted Tuberculosis (TB) prior to their admission to hospital. It was not contracted in the hospital."

"The vast majority of people contract TB in the community. TB is treatable and can lead to a full recovery. The patient had a previous admission to hospital for an unrelated medical complaint."

"The patient was diagnosed with the disease on a subsequent hospital admission. As soon as the diagnosis was suspected, the patient was treated in line with national policies and procedures."

"In line with national guidance, set out by Public Health England, we routinely get in touch with the people a patient has come into contact with giving details and information should they have any concerns."

"The trust closely monitors infections acquired in hospital; no further cases of TB have been identified in the hospital at this stage."

A hospital board report told how it related to an incident in April and 36 patients had been sent letters.

Appeal following break-in at pub

A POLICE investigation has been launched after reports of a break-in at a pub.

The incident took place at the Park Tavern pub in Cot Lane, Kingswinford.

West Midlands Police says four men are believed to have been involved.

A spokesman said: "Police were called to the pub just before 3am on May 29 to a report of a break-in after the alarms were activated."

"Nothing was reported to have been stolen from the premises, but investigations remain on-going as officers seek to obtain a copy of the CCTV at the location."

"It is believed four men were involved in the break-in."

Call police on 101, quoting 20DY/111444K/17.

Burglar pleads guilty to murder attempt

Scene of the vicious attack on the guard

A BURGLAR has admitted the attempted murder of a factory security guard, aged 73, after attacking him with a shovel as he lay defenceless on the ground.

CCTV footage at Stoke Forgings in Brierley Hill showed Lee Parsons raining blows on his victim. Parsons kept up the savage attack for almost 20 minutes, kicking the guard in the head and stomach and leaving a trail of blood as he tried to drag him into an office.

The 44-year-old was also seen going through the victim's pockets.

After it was played at Wolverhampton Crown Court Parsons changed his plea to guilty.

The two men had initially sparred with sticks until the defendant picked up the shovel and battered Mr Mattu until he fell on the ground. The victim, who kept trying to get to his feet, suffered serious head injuries and was in a critical condition in hospital for several days.

The assault at the Vine Street metal factory on March 19 shocked workers who discovered the injured guard when they arrived at 7pm for the night shift. He had lain there for almost six hours. Parsons was arrested two days later in Holly Hall.

Mr Hugh O'Brien Quinn, prosecuting, told the court that the victim now needed full-time care, could walk only with a frame and was on 27 tablets a day. He was commended by Judge James Burbidge for his 'remarkable resilience and bravery'.

Parsons, of no fixed abode, pleaded guilty to attempted murder and burglary. He was remanded in custody until July 3 when he will be sentenced.

Hospice patients' life stories to be recorded

A CHARITY is helping terminally-ill people record their life stories so family and friends can hear their voices and memories for years to come.

The Hospice Biographers scheme began at Mary Stevens Hospice in Stourbridge this week.

Patients will be interviewed by journalists trained as 'Hospice Biographers' and then given a USB memory stick with the recording on.

Organisers say the audio files will give people the chance to have their stories recorded professionally and free of charge.

The charity will eventually offer the unique service to around 200 hospices across the UK, creating the largest confidential audio library of its kind ever created in Britain. The scheme is being supported by Mary Stevens CEO Steven Jackson.

A hospice spokesman said: "The scheme will see hospice patients record their stories for their own listening pleasure, and to be given as treasured memories to their loved ones and families."

"Here at the hospice, we think it's a wonderful idea and something we'd love to do for our patients, so we are hoping to find journalists who would be willing to volunteer their time and skills for one day per month, for 10 months of the year."

Actor

The Hospice Biographers campaign has been backed by actor David Suchet, who is best known for his role on TV as the detective Hercule Poirot.

He said he wished the charity had been around to record his own mother's voice and memories before she died.

He added: "I want to thank the Hospice Biographers because we will all lose those who are near and dear to us one day and we would love to have actually heard their stories and lives. The Hospice Biographers will now record that for those of us who are left."

Academic research has also been carried out to establish the possible therapeutic benefits that terminally-ill patients and their families may experience as a result of the charity's work.

The Hospice Biographers is a nationwide charity. For more details, see www.thehospicebiographers.com website.

Raider jailed after he was confronted by resident

A WOMAN found a raider trying to break into her home when she went to investigate after hearing a noise

Ryan Sheldon, who had already raided the garden shed, was standing at the back door and holding a large spanner, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told.

"The woman was absolutely petrified, thinking he was going to smash the window," said Mr Neil Ahuja, prosecuting. "She told him to leave but he did not move until she started swearing. Then he began to walk away pulling a blue suitcase."

The 28-year-old broke into a run when told the police had been called and was followed by the woman who saw him climb over a fence into an alleyway.

Then her partner and nephew reached the scene and detained the culprit until officers arrived.

The blue suitcase held tools stolen from the garden shed while around £400 worth of damage had been done to the back door of the house in New Street, Quarry Bank.

Mr Stephen Hamblett, defending, said Sheldon, who had 23 previous convictions involving 33 offences, had mental health problems and a 'chronic' drug addiction.

Sheldon, of Northfield Road, Netherton, was jailed for a year after pleading guilty to attempting to burgle the house and breaking into the shed.

Judge Michael Challinor told him: "The woman is still feeling the effects in that she does not feel safe in her own home."

Second teenager on murder charge

A SECOND teenager has been charged with the murder of a father-of-two from Netherton.

Damilola Johnson, 18, is accused of killing Simon Johnson, who is not a relation.

On Saturday, a 16-year-old boy, who cannot be named due to legal reasons, appeared at Walsall Magistrates Court, also charged with the 41-year-old's murder.

It brings the number of people charged as part of the investigation to three. A 16-year-old is accused of burglary on the same night Mr Johnson was found dead.

Simon Johnson, a window fitter, was found at his home on Cradley Road on August 16. He died from stab wounds.

Children's home will 'minimise' cuts to jobs

A CHILDREN'S home where dozens of jobs are at risk has said it wants to 'minimise' compulsory redundancies.

Staff at Sunfield Children's Home, at Clent, between Stourbridge and Bromsgrove, are facing an uncertain future after it was announced all staff roles would be reviewed.

The independent special school employs more than 300 people and has recently been taken over by Ruskin Mill, which runs the Glasshouse College in Stourbridge and Ruskin Mill College in Gloucestershire.

Sunfield Principal Caroline Bell said had Ruskin Mill not stepped in, the home in Clent would have had to close.

A consultation is now under way with workers while discussions are being held with unions.

The home supports 38 children and young people aged between six and 19, many who have severe learning difficulties.

Ms Bell said: "I want to stress that we are very keen to minimise compulsory redundancies if we can, and have been looking at a range of other measures as part of an overall review.

"Our proposed reorganisation is not just about getting things back on to a firmer financial footing - it is also intended to set the school on a path to improvement and long term stability that will allow it to continue its vitally important work."

She added: "This is obviously an unsettling time, in fairness, to all those involved."

Funds top £7k in memory of victim

A FUNDRAISING appeal for the funeral of a man killed in a suspected hit-and-run in Halesowen has raised more than £7,000.

Benjamin Morse, aged 36, died when he was hit by a car at around 12.15am on May 1.

Police charged a 21-year-old man on suspicion of Mr Morse's murder two weeks ago.

The fundraising page on the Just Giving website was aiming to raise £6,000 for the funeral of Arsenal fan Mr Morse, but donations have already surpassed £7,794.

A statement on the page states: "Due to the sheer number who have requested details of where they can donate to the funeral/celebration of Ben's life, we have decided to create this funding avenue."

NHS plea for more donors to give blood

Hospital is looking at total ban on smoking

PATIENTS and visitors using a hospital could be stopped from smoking on the grounds within weeks.

Bosses at Dudley's Russells Hall Hospital are looking at going smoke-free by the end of the summer.

It could see chiefs remove existing smoker shelters around the site.

The hospital currently allows smoking only in designated areas.

Dudley's Councillor Peter Miller, cabinet member for health and well-being, said: "I think making the hospital smoke-free is good news.

"One of the worst things when you go there is having to walk through people smoking. I've always found it unbelievable that patients are allowed out of wards and stand pretty much outside the doors to smoke."

Stevie Benton, communications manager at Action on Smoking and Health (ASH), a campaigning public health charity, said: "Smoke-free hospitals are an important part of helping motivate people to quit smoking.

"They are most successful when part of a joined up approach which includes access to smoking cessation services for those who want to quit."

The Dudley Group Directors' blog states: "The Trust will be considering its options regarding going smoke free over the next few months. One of the options open to the trust is to make our sites entirely smoke-free and therefore remove the existing smoking shelters.

"We are keen to engage with staff, patients and visitors on our options and listen to feedback."

A ROAD in Sedgley will be closed on Sunday from 6am to 1pm. Cotwall End Road will be closed to enable street cleaning work to be carried out. Diversions will be in place on Longfellow Road and Sandyfields Road.

Next moving to former Sainsbury's site

How the new Next store will look

THE former Sainsbury's superstore at Merry Hill is to become one of the biggest Next stores in the UK, shopping centre owner intu has revealed.

The multi-million development will include Next's homeware range, an outlet for the Lipsy fashion brand and a coffee shop when it opens next spring. The deal, which follows months of talks between intu and Next, is part of the shopping centre owner's ambitious £100 million plan to transform Merry Hill.

Intu says it has worked closely with Next on plans to convert the former Sainsbury's at the centre into a 75,680 sq ft store. It follows the decision of the supermarket chain to pull out last Christmas.

Nick Round, regional director at intu, said: "We will be working closely with Next to build a fantastic space for what will be one of their biggest UK stores.

"Next's significant investment at intu Merry Hill reflects our own long term commitment to the centre and the confidence that exists in it as a destination where brands can really flourish. Our plans are to attract even more great brands and create compelling experiences for customers across the West Midlands."

Mr Round said the new Next will extend the original Sainsbury's footprint of 60,000 sq ft, taking in the site of one of the shopping centre's three Burger Kings and extending the 20ft ceilings by another 10ft, installing a 4,500 sq ft mezzanine.

"It will have a new design, new layout and new format, creating a new flagship store for Next that will help bring more shoppers to Merry Hill," he said.

New business district could bring 1,400 jobs

ALMOST 1,400 jobs will be created over five years as part of an enterprise zone in Brierley Hill and Pensnett, a report reveals.

Dudley's Business and Innovation Enterprise Zone, known as DY5, was established in Brierley Hill on April 1.

The zone covers 170 acres of land at Blackbrook Valley industrial estate and Pensnett, as well as office space on The Waterfront, near the Merry Hill shopping centre.

It was stated at the time of its launch that the scheme would see 7,000 jobs created over 25 years. The latest predictions, from Black Country Consortium chief executive Sarah Middleton, say that 1,391 jobs will come to the zone in the first five years and 71 businesses will move to the site.

The Government-supported initiative attracts firms by offering up to £55,000 per year business rate discount over five years. Other benefits include the forthcoming extension of the Metro tram line to Brierley Hill by 2023.

Alan Lunt, Dudley Council's strategic director for place, said: "With all of the benefits that DY5 brings, as well as the significant amount of regeneration taking place and infrastructure investment, there has never been a better time to relocate your expanding business to DY5 and the borough of Dudley."

Industrial

The Waterfront offers office space as well as access to nearby industrial estates.

The scheme is part of the Black Country Enterprise Zone, led by the Black Country Local Enterprise Partnership in partnership with the new West Midlands Combined Authority.

Other zones include Darlaston and Wolverhampton North, creating 4,000 jobs in advanced manufacturing including aerospace, automotive and engineering sectors.

Prior to the Business and Innovation Enterprise Zone, there was a Dudley Business Investment Zone at The Waterfront. But the scheme, which lasted two years, saw only one firm sign up for the reduced business rates deal. It was hoped it would boost the half empty development which had once been a vibrant business hub for the Black Country.

Firms that quit The Waterfront included Virgin Media and it once housed internet bank Egg. Since then the former office block called Point North has been turned into up-market apartments.

Families explore park on nature trail

Families took part in a nature walk at Mary Stevens Park in Stourbridge, organised by Vicki Smith, right

CHILDREN enjoyed a close-up view of the area's wildlife on a special nature walk in Stourbridge.

Fourteen families attended the Signs of Spring Walk at Mary Stevens Park last week.

Park ranger Debra Merrick said: "It was a great day, all of the children learnt something new about wildlife. They loved going around the park, feeding the fish and the birds."

Children were able to make their own bird's nests at the free event and were rewarded with chocolate eggs for their efforts.

Flower

The walk also included bird-spotting, mini-beast hunting and flower recognition.

Ms Merrick said: "We are trying to do more and more for wildlife at the park and it is really good to see children getting involved. We will continue to run events like this in the future."

The park has taken a number of measures to encourage more wildlife to visit the park, including building a duck hotel, creating special areas of long grass and putting up more bird feeders.

The walk was organised with the Cradley Heath community company Walk Works, which promotes guided walks.

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

It's time to invest in something really funny

A NEW study by an academic at Birmingham City University reveals great swathes of the population crying out for what is now known as a "traditional sitcom", ie one that is funny.

Reactions were analysed on three sitcoms, the slapstick Miranda, the American "1980s period comedy" Everybody Hates Chris, and the joke-free romantic comedy Gavin & Stacey.

She said Gavin & Stacey divided opinion: "Some viewers really enjoyed feeling invested in the characters and their relationships, others argued that the lack of jokes suggested that the writers just weren't able to make a 'real' sitcom."

Two things spring to mind. Firstly, couldn't they find three better comedies than this? How about Dad's Army? Reginald Perrin? One Foot in the Grave?

And who actually finds Gavin and Stacey funny? I saw it once, it didn't raise a single laugh. Not one. If I want to feel "invested", I will call my stockbroker.

ANOTHER glossy card from my local car dealer, telling me that as a VIP customer I will be allowed to attend a special, invitation-only event, where I will get the opportunity to, er, buy a car.

Which begs the question of what would happen if somebody turned up uninvited, with a big sack of money, offering to pay list price for the most expensive car in the showroom. Presumably a couple of burly bouncers would bundle them out, telling them gatecrashers are not welcome. Or maybe I'm becoming a cynic.

A COUPLE of weeks ago I argued that as there was no significant rail network in the Black Country, people here would find it hard to stomach paying more tax to subsidise well-heeled commuters in London. Environmentalist Tim Weller has been in touch, and raises some interesting questions which do deserve answers.

Tim calls for the reopening of the mothballed line connecting Stourbridge and Dudley to Burton-upon Trent which would effectively open-up a 75-mile link between Worcester and Derby, as well as putting the Black Country back on the national rail map.

But instead, for reasons never properly explained, the powers-that-be seem intent on using a small piece of that valuable line, from Wednesbury to Brierley Hill, for the "bus on rails" that is the Midland Metro. This would make it impossible to run a proper rail service on that stretch.

Tim wonders why the Metro, which would cost £30 million per km to install, is favoured over restoring the old rail service, which would cost less than £6 million per km. Maybe somebody would like to challenge this but it seems to me that the Black Country would benefit far more from a fast rail service linking it to the rest of the country than a slow tram running for just a few miles.

Blue Peter legend's passing among the politics

RIP John Noakes, a proper children's TV daredevil, seen with his beloved Shep

Dianne Abbott, who says she has moved on from her previous stance on Northern Ireland

The ginormously talented TV historian Lucy Worsley, not scirring the skeduled issue

Walk away advice is PC gone mad

SOME days before the NHS computer crash and BA's micro-chip mix-up, my old PC's screen suddenly filled with dire warnings, klaxon sounds and an American voice telling me to ring this number immediately. I hadn't a clue what was going on, so I did what I always do in times of PC crisis. I switched it off and went for a long walk.

WHEN I started the computer up again, all the warnings had vanished. I assume it was some low-grade attempt either to extract information, demand a ransom fee or both. Just to be safe, I downloaded all my files on to a memory stick. It took ages but gives me a great sense of security.

I COMMENTED on Lucy Worsley pronouncing "schedule" as "skedule" in her latest historical show, about Jane Austen. It gets worse. One TV reviewer reported that Worsley twice used the word "ginormous." Miss Austen would probably shudder and reach for the smelling salts.

IF you are of a certain age, you will probably remember John Noakes, who died this week, as the daft-as-a-brush Blue Peter presenter, paddling in the excrement of that incontinent baby elephant, or making yet another pointless Christmas present from a wire coathanger and a Fairy Liquid bottle. Think again. Have a look at his 1970s ascent of Nelson's Column on YouTube (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p4YFCJtTmwl>) in the days before health and safety. With not even a hard helmet or a safety rope, Noakes climbs the column on a series of ladders, including one horrific, gravity-defying overhang. One slip and he would have been dead. Yet he shows not a trace of fear, not a hint of regret. I'm not sure whether he was brave or foolish but what a great performer he was.

A SECOND reader takes up the cudgels

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

against the term "lone wolf" to describe a terrorist, a word which denigrates the noble wolf. While we're at it, he asks for the derogatory term "cowboy" to be banned. He knows his stuff, having worked with cowboys in the Rockies. They were, he says, "particularly hard working, skilled and professional people."

THE official election leaflet has just arrived from our local Labour candidate. It contains not a single mention of Jeremy Corbyn.

LOTS of visitors to the Chelsea Flower Show went home clutching brochures for "natural swimming ponds." This is the cool, green alternative to a chlorine-drenched swimming pool in your back garden. For between £60,000 and £90,000 the contractors will dig a hole, waterproof it and give you a place where you can swim among the newts, frogs and dragonflies, and sneer at your less nature-minded neighbours. I have a pal who made himself a swimming pond long before they became fashionable. It involved a weekend with a JCB and cost a lot less than sixty grand. His wife swims in it almost every day of the year and he has recently dragged an old dinghy onto it where one can sit at sunset and, while wobbling gently, put the world to rights with a G&T and a frog chorus. Bliss.

DIANE Abbott says she may once have hoped for a British defeat by the IRA, but has changed her mind, just as she has changed her hairstyle. So that's all right, then. Let's hope she doesn't suddenly go for a cut and blow-dry and emerge from the salon cheerleading some other bunch of murdering psychopaths.

ABBOTT tries to distance herself from her pro-IRA days by repeating that it was 34 years ago. That makes it worse. For she was praying for the Brits to lose the struggle in Ulster at a time when the IRA were committing atrocities on the British mainland such as the Hyde Park bombings (11 soldiers and seven horses killed) and the Harrods bombing (three police and three civilians killed, 90 injured). Her views back then were shared by only a tiny, rabid number of extremists. The passing of time is utterly irrelevant and her favourite phrase "moving on" does not wash.

A READER shares my view on the unfair funding of Alzheimer's treatment, with some patients subsidised by the state and others driven into penury by care-home fees. He suggests we learn a lesson from old lags. If you seem to be developing dementia, commit a serious crime. That way, you get 24/7 care in a warm, dry, comfortable prison with three meals a day, constant medical attention and no worries about security. And it doesn't cost you a penny.

AUF wiedersehen, pets. We have just bade a fond farewell to our German friends, over here for a few days for the first time in five years. Nothing seemed to have changed, apart from the arrival of their son, now 22 months. Turns out entertaining a German Terrier Two is much the same as an English Terrier Two. Fill a small watering can with water and watch them find endless amusement in watering the plants, the lawn, the grown-ups, the cat and anything else. Mehr is a most useful German word. It means more, as in "mehr Wasser," "mehr Trampolin" and "mehr Katze." If anything makes a two-year-old shriek with laughter, you know he'll want mehr.

TALKING POINT

Sat navs will send us round the bend

SO, the sat nav's on, we've got a half a pack of cigarettes, it's dark and we're wearing sunglasses... Hit it!

But hold on a minute Elwood - why are we going down this single carriageway track?

Yes, not exactly going according to plan with the Blues Brothers' movie script, as they start on their journey across America - in the film which surely is the antithesis of 'satnavism'.

And yet, from December, UK learner drivers will be expected to ditch their map and sign reading skills - as knowing how to use the computerised directions-giver will become part of the actual driving test.

Is this not surely a recipe for disaster? The daily calamities of the feckless lorry driver whose HGV gets stuck under a bridge because they followed that annoying female voice to their doom, are all too common.

And, how many times do we see road signs proclaiming: Do NOT follow sat nav directions.

Well, if that is the case, what is the blooming point of them at all?

Admittedly, for your actual door-to-door travel, without the hassle of having to worry whether you have missed a turn or not, on one-off journeys, they have some worth. But complete reliance?

And as the development of the devices get more all-singing, all dancing, we could be faced with a future where we don't even view the road ahead at all, well apart from the possible introduction of driverless cars themselves.

I foresee a superhacker getting hold of the software/hardware (don't ask a dunce like me to differentiate!) which controls driverless cars of the future, and a convoy of thousands screaming down the M5 towards the cliffs of Lands End and the watery grave of the Atlantic.

How many times as well, does that soulless voice with BBesque pronunciation get it completely wrong, either with the road name itself, or more frequently, with the number of junctions at a traffic island? Sometimes, slip roads are confused and that only adds to the confusion.

Once I ended up, in search of a hotel in Liverpool, going round a roundabout, obviously looking completely like a tourist with impatient scallies all around me, and took the wrong turn-off, only to end up on a lovely sight-seeing tour of the Wallasey Tunnel.

To add insult to injury, we then had to pay a toll to come all the way back again.

However, occasionally, only very occasionally mind, the sat nav mistress does actually provide revelatory miles-chopping routes across lovely country lanes.

Then of course, being the perfect driver who scoffs at reliance on anything but my own excellent internal atlas, it takes twice as long to get back home. And I couldn't even blame the tractors.

GRAEME ANDREW

Honour Darby's pioneer ancestor too

GOOD to see local Woodsetton lad Abraham Darby I could be commemorated with a 'statue' near his place of birth (presumably Wren's Nest).

Darby deserves recognition as one of the industrial pioneers of the early 18th century, for successfully smelting iron with coal, and for founding the Coalbrookdale company, headed by a dynasty of ironmasters who bore the same name (albeit in Shropshire).

I think it would be good also, however, if the opportunity could be taken to include a reference to Darby's family connections to that earlier local industrial pioneer, Dud Dudley (c1599-1684) who was Darby's great uncle on his paternal grandmother's side of the family, and who had begun smelting iron with coal right here in Dudley and the surrounding vicinity over 80 years beforehand in 1620.

Research over the last few years indicates that Darby may have worked out his iron smelting methods, at least in part, from 'inside knowledge' that was most likely passed down through the family.

This came in the form of surface coal which had been naturally coked by post carboniferous activity. This naturally coked coal would have been suitable for smelting iron without the need for significant modification of the equipment or processes prevalent at the time.

This has now been backed up by geological evidence around Barrow Hill, Pensnett, and it is hoped can be further backed up by archaeological evidence from the site of Dudley's purpose-built furnace off the Himley Road at Askew Bridge, at some point.

France in solidarity with the UK

I HAVE just arrived back from four days in France.

Manchester was everywhere, on TV, radio, in newspapers and in café conversations.

I visited Ascension Day Holiday fetes in villages around Maubeuge. Local town halls were flying British and French flags together over the entrances.

The massive memorial arch to the Missing of the Somme, at Thiepval, was flying the French and British flags at half mast, side by side.

It was heart-warming to find that the solidarity between the ordinary people of France and Britain, which the hard-line separatists appear to consider totally unimportant and expendable, remains strong and that they still hope that we may be allowed to have second thoughts.

One young Frenchman in a bar said to me 'Don't give up hope'.

Concern over store using 'Parking Eye'

ASDA'S planned parking restrictions using number plate recognition cameras at their new store in Sedgley will be a troublesome and unwanted nuisance to large numbers of people.

The £70 parking charge for overstaying the two hour limit means elderly and vulnerable people will fall foul of the limit and be pursued by 'Parking Eye' - Asda's enforcement company. The number plate recognition system is fundamentally unjust - it provides no proof of arrival and departure times to the parker and Parking Eye acts as witness, judge and debt collector. The argument is that 'everyone has similar restrictions' ignores the high number of community organisations used by Sedgley's vulnerable people that border the Sedgley car park.

Passes not checked at train station

HUNDREDS of people must, like my wife and I, travel on trains within the West Midlands, as our passes allow us to.

When we travel by bus, our passes are read by a meter situated by the bus driver. When we travel by the Metro tram, again our details are recorded on a meter held by the guard.

Yet when we travel by train, the guards just look at the passes and do not record the details.

Sometimes our passes are read by a machine as we enter a station, but other times we are able to just walk through - as we did at Birmingham Moor Street station.

Is it any wonder that the train companies do not make so much profit as they could? Very often there is no guard on the trains anyway. If there is one, couldn't they be equipped with machines like the Metro guards are?

My mind is baffled.

£5m spent buying back council homes

A CASH-STRAPPED council in the Black Country has spent more than £5 million buying back homes which were originally sold at a discount under right to buy laws, it can be revealed.

Sandwell Council brought back 59 properties at a cost of £5.035 million.

Many of the homes were sold back to the authority for much more than they were bought for as the council came under pressure to increase its housing stock.

Bosses insisted they only bought back properties if the deal provided value for money.

The right to buy policy was introduced by the Conservative Government in the 1980s, allowing council house tenants to buy their homes at a discount.

But a surge in house prices over recent years meant the value of the properties had rocketed by the time the authority came to buy them back.

Documents showed one house the council sold in Bodenham Road, Smethwick, for £12,370 in 1989 was bought back for £106,200 in 2014 under a mortgage rescue scheme – more than eight times the original price.

Civic leaders join Black Country Society chairman James Morgan and president Keith Hodgkins, centre

Society raises a toast to its 50 bostin' years

THE Black Country Society took a year to hit 100 members – now 50 years later that has grown to a bostin' 1,600. And the group marked the milestone with a celebration at Himley Hall.

Black Country History Society chairman James Morgan was joined by president Keith Hodgkins, deputy mayor of Sandwell Susan Eaves, Mayor of Dudley Dave Tyler, Mayor of Wolverhampton Phil Page and Walsall Mayor Marco Longhi.

It followed a blue plaque being unveiled in March at the Noah's Ark pub in Wood Street, the location 50 years ago on March 1 of the first meeting of the society.

The Black Country Society was founded in 1967 by the late Dr John Fletcher and John Brimble, who felt the Black Country did not receive its fair share of recognition for its major contribution to the industrial development of Britain and the world.

The group grew out of the Dudley Canal Tunnel Preservation Society, which successfully campaigned to save Dudley Canal Tunnel. The society's stated aim was 'to foster interest in the past, present and future of the Black Country'.

In 1968 calls were made for the establishment of a industrial museum, and since the creation of the Black Country Living Museum, the society has continued to support it. The society also publishes a quarterly magazine called The Blackcountryman.

Chairman James Morgan said: "It was appropriate the celebration should take place at Himley Hall, the home of the Earl of Dudley who was the most influential figure in the area when the Black Country was undergoing its rapid growth."

Police told of 15 child sex crimes every day

HUNDREDS of online child sex offences have been committed in the West Midlands over the last two years.

The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC) has released figures showing that the internet was used to commit 241 child sexual offences across the region and it is calling on the next Government to make online safety a top priority.

Last year across England and Wales, 5,653 child sex crimes that were committed against children as young as three had an online element.

A total of 39 police forces reported cyber-related sex crimes against under-18s that included rape, grooming, and sexual assault.

This number has risen by 44 per cent from 2015/16 when 39 forces across England and Wales who responded to the same Freedom of Information request by the NSPCC, recorded 3,903 cyber-related sexual offences.

Flag

This is the second year police have been required to record – 'cyber flag' – any crime that involved the internet.

The latest figures show police are recording an average of 15 internet-related sex crimes against children a day, highlighting a worrying trend in how predators are using the internet to target children.

For offences where the age of the victim was recorded, 13 was the most common age of the victim

By Doug Wootton

(257 cases) but there were nearly 100 offences nationwide committed against children aged ten and under, with the youngest victim aged just three.

Peter Wanless, of the NSPCC, said: "These figures confirm our fears that offenders are exploiting the internet to target children for their own dark deeds."

"Children also tell our Childline service that they are being targeted online by some adults who pose as children and try to meet them, or persuade them to perform sexual acts on webcams, before blackmailing them. This terrifies them and can leave some feeling worthless, depressed, and suicidal."

He added: "We cannot idly sit by knowing that more and more innocent young people are being harmed online. Today's worrying data leaves the next Government with no choice but to urgently address this issue. We are calling on them to force internet companies and social media sites to adhere to rules that keep their young users safe."

Jacket clue after a pair of robberies

TWO shops were targeted by robbers within two weeks of each other in raids being linked by police.

Officers were initially called to the One Stop store on Bourne Street, Dudley. Two offenders entered the shop wearing masks and stole cigarettes and money on March 8 at 7.30pm. Almost two weeks later, on March 20, officers were called to the One Stop store in Horseley Street in Tipton at 8.50pm. Two masked men had threatened a staff member and stole a small quantity of cash and a large box of cigarettes.

One of the suspects was seen on CCTV wearing the same distinctive jellies at both locations.

A West Midlands Police spokesman said: "Officers have been following numerous lines of inquiry, including forensics."

It's animal magic as zoo bags top awards

IT is one of the Black Country's favourite attractions – visited by tens of thousands of people every year.

Dudley Zoo has now been honoured at a ceremony celebrating the best of British and Irish zoos and aquariums.

The attraction netted a trio of gongs at the British and Irish Association of Zoos and Aquariums (BIZA) awards, which celebrate outstanding achievements in the zoological world.

The Castle Hill attraction's £20,000 'baboons on the bank' exhibit, which provides a natural hillside home for the zoo's breeding group of gelada baboons, was awarded a silver award at the ceremony.

Zoo photographer Jason Skarratt was awarded two runner-up prizes in the photography competition.

Zoo director Derek Grove said: "We are delighted to have been awarded three accolades by British and Irish Association of Zoos and Aquariums, especially in our 80th anniversary year."

Proud

"This proves Dudley Zoological Gardens is one of the country's leading zoos and we're proud our contributions towards conservation and animal welfare have been recognised by experts from within the zoo community."

The one-acre enclosure – which was wholly funded by the zoo and opened by TV presenter and conservationist Bill Oddie in 2014 – provides a replica of the gelada's wild habitat.

Zoo bosses said its vertical rocky landscape and grassland bank ideally suit the primates. Since introducing the species to the new enclosure, the venue has also welcomed three babies – Billie, Ambo and Gimbi – who enjoy barrelling down the hill together.

Bornean orangutan Sprout's birthday encounter with a bubble

Baby snow leopard Milo was cared for by staff after her mother died

Photographer Jason was honoured for two photos – one of orangutan Sprout being showered with bubbles on her birthday, and another of zoo staff caring for newborn snow leopard Milo after his mother's sudden death. The photo of the Bornean orangutan was captured on her fifth birthday. Sprout had never seen bubbles before and couldn't quite believe her eyes as the colourful soapy suds floated towards her.

Zoo chiefs said that the previously unpublished photograph of staff looking after Milo shows how its dedicated keepers go above and beyond for the sake of the animals.

A UNIQUE partnership between a bank and the photography department at Dudley College has produced a set of stunning images of Black Country landmarks.

The collaboration between Handelsbanken Stourbridge also means that two student photographers who undertook the commission will be able to afford to join a college trip to Iceland.

Having heard about the proposed trip, BTEC Diploma Photography students James Holyhead and Callum Calton, both 18, didn't think they would be able to raise the funds to go.

But Handelsbanken branch manager Richard Mander commissioned the students to create a set of photographs that reflected life in the Black Country, to hang in branches in Stourbridge, Walsall and Wolverhampton.

Mr Mander said: "When the students approached me I immediately understood this was a great opportunity for both parties. Supporting the local community is important to the bank as we pride ourselves on our local friendly approach."

Unique

"We had also been looking at ways of making a link to our neighbouring area at our sites, so the idea of commissioning a unique set of local landscapes to hang on our walls seemed a great fit."

I was also impressed with the professionalism of the students' approach as the calibre of the work they showed me filled me with confidence. As a Scandinavian Bank, part of the wider Nordic zone, we are also keen to promote a better understanding of that region, so the fact the students wanted to use their fee from the work to visit Iceland was an extra bonus."

Through his business contacts Mr Mander has helped the students find other supporters as businesses including Talbots Solicitors, Nicklin LLP, Stelstocks Limited and Kendrick Homes have also committed to purchasing images from their extensive portfolio.

Phil Brooks, photography lecturer at the college, said: "Developing our students' ability to pitch their work and find backers is a critical skill for anyone wanting to be a commercial photographer, so it's always really pleasing when a partnership of this kind comes together in this way."

The public can see the photographs in the branches and the portfolio will be available online at dudleycol.ac.uk and www.handelsbanken/stourbridge

£19.8m loss at building society

THE loss of a court case has punched a hole in the annual figures of West Bromwich Building Society, driving it to a £19.8 million loss.

It comes despite strong home loan figures from the Black Country's biggest building society, which saw gross residential mortgage lending rise to £712m for 12 months to the end of March. Up from £673m a year ago, it's the biggest lending figure for the society since the financial crash of 2008.

But the West Brom had to fork out £27.5m after the Court of Appeal said it should not have doubled the interest it charged for some 6,700 buy-to-let landlords.

Beyond the court case, the West Brom said its underlying pre-tax profit was up 60 per cent on last year, to £7.7m.

Chief executive Jonathan Westhoff said: "Whilst the reported loss for the year is disappointing, we can draw considerable confidence from our strong underlying performance."

Fiona brings antique show to museum

BBC TV Antiques Roadshow presenter Fiona Bruce

IT'S time to dust off the treasures as BBC One's Antiques Roadshow heads to a Dudley museum later this month.

Leading antiques and fine arts specialists will be on hand at the Black Country Living Museum to offer free advice and valuations to visitors. Museum goers are invited to bring along their family heirlooms, household treasures and car-boot bargains for inspection by the experts on June 21 at the Tipton Road attraction.

Antiques Roadshow presenter Fiona Bruce said: "The best part of working on Antiques Roadshow is that we never know who or what is going to turn up on the day. The visitors, the objects they bring, their stories and the location all combine to make a fabulous experience that we aim to capture for the viewers. If you are a fan of Antiques Roadshow, curious to see behind the scenes, or just fancy a day out, I would urge you to come along."

It's open from 9.30am to 4.30pm. Entry to the show is free. Visitors with an unusual item, collection or story can let the team know in advance via the Share Your Story link on www.bbc.co.uk/antiquesroadshow

Police respond to 17 drone call-outs

WEST Midlands Police were called to 17 drone-related incidents in the first three months of this year.

The force, however, made no arrests in connection with the call-outs. Incidents ranged from anti-social behaviour to road disruption and public safety.

In most cases, police took no further action. In others, officers were unable to trace the owner or operator of the drone.

Under rules from the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA), people cannot use drones in areas the Air Navigation Order defines as congested.

The order states congested is 'any area of a city, town or settlement which is substantially used for residential, industrial, commercial or recreational purposes'.

Permission is needed from the CAA to fly a drone in such areas. There has been concern after drones have also been used to make drops over prison walls.

Prison for speeding driver who left friends seriously injured

A DRIVER, who ruined the lives of three friends after ignoring their pleas to slow down, has been sent to jail for five years.

Timothy Pascall, of Netherton, was doing 83mph in a 30 limit zone on the wrong side of the road in a stolen car moments before disaster struck, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

The 21-year-old's girlfriend, front seat passenger Lauren Lunn, feared for her life as the black Corsa hurtled towards a hump back bridge in Hale-sowen Road, Netherton at 5am on March 19.

She pulled at the steering wheel in a bid to get the vehicle back on track but it was snatched back by Pascall who then lost control, said Mr David Bennett, prosecuting.

The Corsa – on false plates after being stolen from Leamington a week earlier – careered across the road so fast it snapped a telegraph pole. Ryan Plimmer, a friend of the driver, was left close to death while Miss Lunn and fellow passenger Courtney Miller were seriously hurt in the crash.

Pascall, on bail for an unrelated matter and breaking a curfew, escaped uninjured from the crash that he had caused. He lied to police saying the driver had 'done a runner' prompting a helicopter hunt for the non-existent fifth occupant of the Corsa. Miss Lunn refused to support his lies.

Mr Plimmer, 21, suffered a detached aorta, a bleed on the brain, torn liver, burst bladder and broken bones. He has undergone six operations and faces up to two years more treatment. The other two passengers, both 18, also suffered life-changing injuries.

Pascall, of Ashfield Crescent, pleaded guilty to three charges of causing serious injury by dangerous driving, aggravated vehicle taking and attempting to pervert the course of justice.

Locked up – Timothy Pascall

Grammar skills are on the slide

NEARLY 38 per cent of adults from the West Midlands would fail a grammar test, it has been claimed.

There and their, your and you're, who and whom, plus the correct use of the apostrophe, are the kind of grammar rules that are routinely broken.

According to a survey of 2,000 local people, translation and interpretation service LanguageLine says almost 38 per cent of those aged between 18 and 65 in the West Midlands region failed the overall grammar test overall. But that's better than the national failure rate of almost 40 per cent of Brits. It also found 75 per cent of West Midlands residents use 'text' language in a formal setting.

Police targeting drink and drug drivers in summer blitz

MOTORISTS getting behind the wheel while under the influence of drink or drugs are being targeted in a summer crackdown by police.

Officers will be having a blitz on those drivers who their own and others' lives at risk, in the month-long operation.

Last Christmas a similar campaign saw more than 250 people fail roadside tests or refuse to give a sample. A further 40 were positive for drugs, which was a third of those tested.

The highest breath test recording was 167 micrograms in 100 millilitres of breath – more than four times the legal alcohol limit.

Roadside stop checks and unmarked patrols will be used by officers from the West Midlands Police and Central Motorway Police Group (CMPG).

Officers will also act on intelligence to catch irresponsible drivers.

Sergeant Mark Bull, from West Midlands road policing, said: "There are big risks involved with drink or drug driving, not only are you risking killing or injuring yourself or others you also risk losing your licence and potentially your livelihood. Such behaviour is totally unacceptable and drivers found to be driving in excess of the limit will be put before the court."

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson said: "People driving under the influence of drink or drugs are a menace on our roads, causing harm and misery.

"I am hugely supportive of West Midlands Police's efforts to reduce the number of fatalities and serious injuries caused by drink-driving. Drinking alcohol then getting behind the wheel is the most dangerous thing a driver can do. It's a reckless and selfish act."

Record breaker fun run hopes

Restaurant rises from ashes

Main construction has finished on the new-look Hickory's restaurant in Wall Heath

THE new Hickory's restaurant in Wall Heath is almost ready for its grand reopening next month.

It has been built from scratch on its site at the former landmark Kingfisher club, after the original restaurant was destroyed by a fire in August, sparked by a faulty fridge.

Ahead of the opening, a recruitment day was held last week for new staff, with more than 100 people attending.

Mark Rogers, operations manager for Hickory's, said building work was on track with final touches to the interior of the popular barbecue style restaurant.

He said: "It's going really well. We have a tight schedule but it seems to be on track."

The recruitment day was for a range of different roles.

Mr Rogers said: "We need bar, kitchen and waiting staff, although most manager positions are filled."

Witness appeal after man injured in attack

WEST Mercia Police are appealing for witnesses after a man was assaulted by four men at a pub late on a Friday night.

The man had to be hospitalised after suffering facial injuries during the incident.

Police are now calling for any witnesses to come forward following the incident at The Queens Head pub on Sugarbrook Lane in Bromsgrove. It happened between the hours of 11pm on May 4 and 12.30am on May 5.

Police said it was reported that a man was assaulted following an altercation with one of the group.

The victim was taken to the Alexandra Hospital, where he was treated for facial fractures.

Investigating police officers urged any potential witnesses who may have information on the assault to come forward. They are asked to call police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Seller to pay £2k over car that he sold on eBay

A CAR dealer who ran a business on the internet whilst claiming to be a private vendor has been handed a court bill for more than £2,000.

A judge warned 36-year-old Michael Bartlett to also expect a visit from the tax man because his dodgy dealings.

Bartlett sold an Alfa Romeo to a man from Dudley for £775 in March last year after advertising it on the online site eBay, Wolverhampton Magistrates Court heard.

By Marion Brennan

Romeo's milometer had been tampered with to read 99,000 miles on the clock instead of 101,014 miles.

The buyer picked up the car from Bartlett's home in Cheshire but a few days later took it to the RAC for an inspection. Their mechanics felt the car had been ne, said Ms, prosecuting.

When the buyer was unable to contact Bartlett through eBay or text, he decided to return the vehicle. When Bartlett was not at the address, he left the car on the drive along with contact details but retained the keys. On March 18 he received a letter from Bartlett telling him he had no rights in law because he was a private seller.

It was found that the

The court heard that the buyer had successfully pursued Bartlett through the county court and that High Court enforcement officers had since visited his home to recover the debt.

Bartlett said he had intended to use the Romeo himself while he took his own classic Ford off the road to do some maintenance on it, so 'in effect' it was a private sale. But the court was told that Bartlett had sold another 19 cars on eBay.

Bartlett, of Finsbury Walk, Winsford, pleaded guilty to four charges relating to unfair practice. He was fined £575 and ordered to pay £1,500 costs.

Mansion is the wedding venue in romantic novel

A COUNTRY house near Dudley will feature in a romantic novel written by a Black Country author.

Owners of Blakelands Country House were thrilled to hear that they will be featured in West Bromwich author Keren Hughes's novel, My Best Friend's Fiancé, her fifth novel.

The author has visited Blakelands at Halfpenny Green, near Bobbington, on several occasions and when trying to imagine where the couple in the book would get married, she instantly thought of the venue.

Keren said: "I first visited Blakelands around 10 years ago and fell in love with it straight away. The main House dates back to 1500 and has a rich history, making it an impressive and romantic setting.

"I stayed in the Ebony and Ivory room and when I was thinking of a place where my characters could go for their first romantic getaway, I straight away thought of Blakelands.

"Without giving too much away, there is a wedding scene later in the book, and as Blakelands is such a stunning wedding venue, I couldn't think of anywhere better for them to tie the knot."

Keren said: "My Best Friend's Fiancé is the story of a woman named Kara, who is in love with Reid. The only problem is, Reid is engaged to her best friend Zoey. Kara knows it's wrong to covet another woman's man but she can't help but fantasise about what life would be like if they were together."

The book is available to pre-order via Amazon now. Keren also has a Facebook page, www.facebook.com/authorkerenhughes

Teenager is in court after store evacuated

A 15-YEAR-OLD boy charged with making an explosive after armed police evacuated a Sainsbury's supermarket has appeared before magistrates.

Hundreds of people were evacuated from the store in Blackheath on Saturday as the drama unfolded.

Armed officers swarmed on the supermarket as customers were told to leave their shopping and get out at around 12.10pm.

An alarm rang out while shoppers said they heard a loud bang coming from the toilets as panicked customers tried to get out as fast as they could. No members of the public were hurt during the incident.

The boy, who cannot be named for legal reasons, spoke only to confirm his name at Wolverhampton Magistrates Court last week.

He was charged earlier this week with possession of a bladed article and two further charges of making an explosive substance and maliciously causing an explosive substance to endanger life.

He was remanded in custody to appear before the court again on June 21.

Woman was speared by glass shard in the heart

A DOMESTIC dispute nearly ended tragedy when a woman was speared by a shard of glass, a judge was told.

The sliver tore through her chest into the muscle of her heart after she was pushed by her boyfriend into a large cabinet that smashed, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

She was rushed to hospital for emergency surgery and has since made a good recovery.

The court heard that Micah Taylor and the victim had a volatile relationship, which had already resulted in each of them appearing in court for other offences.

The argument that resulted in her injury erupted at her home in Halesowen where the 28-year-old defendant was also living on August 30. At least one child was also at the address.

Wound

The victim was sent crashing into the corner cabinet by Taylor, who then went to her assistance and removed a large piece of glass from the wound as soon as he realised the seriousness of the situation.

He stayed with his partner until police and paramedics arrived, the court was told.

Mr Neil Ahuja, prosecuting, declared: "He had not intended to cause serious harm but it happened in her home in the presence of a very young child."

Taylor had previously landed himself in court after assaulting the woman. He had also set fire to her clothes with a blow torch and threatened to burn her face when the couple clashed in June 2013. She had also smashed windows in his car on a separate occasion, it was said.

By John Scott

Miss Jabeen Akhtar, defending, said: "They seem to bring out the worst in each other but when he pushed her he was not thinking where she was likely to land. It happened in the heat of the moment."

"As soon as he realised she was injured he immediately went to help and pulled out a large piece of glass from her chest. He is extremely remorseful for the injuries she suffered."

Taylor, who is no longer living at the Halesowen address, was convicted of wounding the woman after a trial. He was jailed for two years by Judge Michael Challinor, who told him: "It was a deliberate act when you pushed her forcefully into the display cabinet. It was very dangerous. It was a life-threatening injury. This was the conclusion of your oppressive and controlling behaviour."

A 10-YEAR-OLD girl suffered a broken leg after being hit by a car in Brierley Hill last week.

The girl was taken to hospital by ambulance after being struck in an accident on The Wickets at around 4.35pm on Tuesday, May 30.

An ambulance and senior paramedics were called to the scene to treat the injured schoolgirl in the street, after passers-by gathered to see if they could help.

West Midlands Ambulance spokesman, Murray McGregor, said: "The girl had suffered a badly broken right leg in the collision."

"After treatment at the scene, she was taken to Russells Hall Hospital in Dudley for further treatment."

Police are eager to learn more about the incident and any witnesses to the crash are asked to get in touch with police on 101.

The 350hp Sunbeam, the first car to exceed 150mph

The 1000hp Sunbeam in the Beaulieu Motor Museum

A Sunbeam-built Dyak-powered Avro at Dunstall Park

When Sunbeam shone bright as a big name in transport history

This photo of an engine is of the Arab which is now at the RAF Cosford museum

ONE of the great names in British transport history, and one of the biggest companies in Wolverhampton, The Sunbeam has not existed except as badges on other companies' vehicles since the 1930s, having only made their first powered vehicle in 1899.

Just as famous as aero-engine manufacturers during the First World War, when they were a clear rival to Rolls-Royce, their engines powered aircraft for a little over 10 years.

The first, a side-valve 110hp V8, was first run in 1912, and at the start of the war they were the only British maker of high-powered aero-engines.

The factory in Upper Villiers Street was turned over to building aero-engines and aircraft and their much sought-after staff cars were made by Rover in Coventry.

Sunbeam engines powered seaplanes and airships in particular, including the only aircraft to fly at the Battle of Jutland, and the first to sink a warship with a torpedo.

Surpass

The best Sunbeam engines were the V12 Cossack and Maori, but at the end of the war their reputation was largely ruined by the V8 Arab.

Ordered in huge numbers from four different companies, virtually off the drawing board, it was found to have severe vibration problems, and only 1,300 of the 6,000 ordered were ever built. After the war Sunbeam had some successes, powering the first aircraft to fly the Atlantic both ways, the R.34 Airship, and the first aircraft ever owned by QANTAS in Australia, a Sunbeam Dyak-powered Avro 504, but the fall in their reputation caused by the Arab, and the superb reliability of the Rolls-Royce competition lead to the demise of the aero-engine division.

Strangely, the final successes of Sunbeam aero-engines were on the ground, where they powered Land Speed Record-breaking cars at speeds never achieved by Sunbeam-powered aircraft.

A modified V12 Manitou powered the 350hp Sunbeam which became the first to surpass 150mph, and two V12 Matabeles drove the 1000hp Sunbeam, The Slug, to the first Land Speed Record over 200 mph.

Locally a Sunbeam Manitou can be found in the Black Country Living Museum in Dudley, and the last surviving Arab in the World, is in the RAF Museum Cosford.

Dr Mills said: "I am so grateful to the Royal Geographical Society for this award. I owe a huge thanks to colleagues, mentors, but most of all to my family and friends."

50,000 taking part in clinical health research across region

A RESEARCH network has revealed that more than 50,000 people took part in clinical trials in the West Midlands in one year.

The Clinical Research Network West Midlands has published figures for 2016/17 as NHS organisations celebrated International Clinical Trials Day.

The event is to raise awareness of how patients could contribute to research.

It celebrates the anniversary of the first clinical trial by James Lind in 1747 into the causes of scurvy on board the HMS Salisbury.

A range of activities took place around the region to mark the day, including a school visit by a research bus, a research café and a number of research showcases. And 100 per cent of trusts in the West Midlands are research active, together with 410 GP practices, and the network is the highest recruiting of the 15 in England for commercial studies.

Develop

Participating in health research helps develop new treatments, improve the NHS and save lives, and studies show research-active trusts have better outcomes for patients.

Network clinical director professor Jeremy Kirk said: "The more patients who can be offered the opportunity to take part in vital clinical research, the better the care we can offer and the quicker the NHS can introduce new and better treatments for the benefit of all patients."

"We would like to thank all those who have contributed to these improvements through their participation in research."

Patients have been sharing their stories to highlight the impact that research has had on their lives, and the lives of others.

Sheena, a patient from the Black Country, said: "After research had been explained to me in more detail I knew I was definitely going to take part. I knew that people would benefit from the research and I would be helping somebody else."

This year sees the launch of a new national campaign: I Am Research, which highlights the many different ways in which people can get involved in and contribute to research.

Maisie's 105th birthday

IT'S been quite an eventful 105 years for Maisie Patstone. She may have been born just weeks after the Titanic sunk but it's all been happy sailing – celebrating her 105th birthday surrounded by family members, cake, flowers and an array of cards.

Maisie celebrated her birthday at Beechcroft Residential Home in Oldbury. "We've all had a wonderful day," smiled son Neville Patstone, aged 79.

Maisie was joined by her two sons, Neville and Dennis, aged 77, her two daughter-in-laws, Sue and Jean and her niece Sheila Reith. She also has four grandchildren, Neil, Ian, Richard and Rachel, and six great-grandchildren.

Born in Katherine Road, Smethwick, on May 30, 1912, she was the youngest of three sisters and went to the Abbey Road School before working for tobacco firm at Singleton and Coles in Birmingham. Maisie married Arthur Patstone in April 1934 at Harborne Parish Church. Five years later, he went off to war and served in Egypt and Italy. During their married life, they spent most weekends in a caravan with the family and had a key role in the Midland Caravan Club.

Neville said: "Maisie used to love knitting, sewing and gardening when she lived on her own."

Dennis reminisced the time when Arthur and Maisie once had ducks in their back garden. He said: "Our back garden was a complete mud pit and we had loads of ducks because everything was being rationed at the time. I was really young at the time but I can still remember them."

Dennis added: "Since being at Beechcroft they have taken marvellous care of her."

Brilliantly danced but flawed at the source

A scene from The Boy in the Striped Pyjamas, featuring alternate cast members Matthew Koon and Filippo Di Villo

The Boy in the Striped Pyjamas, Wolverhampton Grand

I CAN'T get beyond the dancing Nazis, a sight so fundamentally bizarre that I am left in two minds about this superbly choreographed and brilliantly danced production from the Leeds-based Northern Ballet.

I have a problem with the source, John Boyne's hugely popular Holocaust novel, which has also been made into a successful film and play, the latter having already visited the Grand.

Boyne's story about a concentration camp commandant's son who, unaware of the horrors on his doorstep, joins his new friend behind the barbed wire with tragic results brings melodrama to a subject where no manipulation of emotions is required.

BY LEON BURAKOWSKI

Mass murder is already deeply unsettling.

I doubt if any child could so easily have got into a guarded, fenced camp and, besides, at Auschwitz, where the story is set, I understand that the vast majority of children were murdered on arrival.

Perhaps there is an argument that to personify the tragedy, like Steven Spielberg did with the red coated girl in Schindler's List, brings it home.

This isn't the only flaw. There is a figure of evil, a gas mask wearing wraith in black, to personify Hitler's twisted ideology. The Fury (from Fuhrer) was danced with slithery serpentine precision by Giuliano Contadini. However, the suggestions that the Nazis' actions were the result of his whispered instructions let's the ill-fated Bruno's father and his SS thugs off the hook - 'just following orders'.

There is no doubt that this production is well-intentioned and audience sensibilities are considered, which explains the absence of swastikas.

Daniel de Andrade's choreography contrasts regimented moves of the Nazis with the youthful glee of Bruno (excellent Kevin Poeng) and his sister Gretel (an eye-catching Rachael Gillespie) and the laboured, aching moves of prisoners, personified by the exceptional Luke Francis as Shmuel.

But, for me, pirouetting Nazis were a (dance) step too far.

It's only a joke if the audience laugh

Funnyman Jimmy Carr has been one of nation's most successful stand-up comics, since launching his career in 2000.

The deadpan master of dark humour has also become a household name through his work on the Channel 4 panel show 8 Out of 10 Cats and The Big Fat Quiz of the Year.

He's back on the road after gathering a selection of his very best jokes along with brand new material for the ultimate comedy show. Jimmy will headline Birmingham's Symphony Hall on Saturday in The Best of, Ultimate Gold, Greatest Hits Tour.

A man who has devoted his life to crafting perfect jokes and has left a trail of laughter in his wake, his new tour will distill everything we love to laugh at and be shocked by, into one unparalleled night of entertainment.

During his years in stand-up, Jimmy has performed nine sell-out tours, playing nearly 2,000 shows to over two million people across four continents. He's won the British Comedy Award for Best Live Stand-Up Tour and been nominated for the Perrier Award.

At the start of his career, Jimmy had no plans to work in TV. "I had no aspiration as a kid at all. If I'd known that it was possible to work in television, I would have wanted to be a producer; but I didn't know anyone in that world. It wasn't an option.

"Instead I took the line of least resistance. I grew up in middle-class Berkshire, so I was obviously going to do A Levels and try to get to the best university possible.

"The fact I've lost my Catholic faith would probably come as the biggest surprise.

"I got to Cambridge and then worked way too hard to get a job in marketing for a blue-chip company. It was amazing that at no point during those years did I think, 'What the devil am I up to?'

"My young self would be a bit shocked that in my mid-20s I made a conscious decision to do something completely out of the ordinary. I left my well-paid job to join the circus.

SUSHI

"The whole being-on-television thing would seem a bit surreal to my younger self. I think I'd also be a bit concerned at the lack of work I do: I only have to do two hours a day max to be considered the hardest working man in comedy.

"I was a little bit melancholy as a youngster but I'm a lot happier now. Doing comedy makes me happy."

Jimmy has taken his show around the world and has proved a hit in Japan. He was thrilled to fly out to the Land of the Rising Sun.

"I desperately wanted to go to Japan. My promoter friend and I are obsessed with food. So we were looking at places to go and tour with amazing restaurants so we can go and eat some amazing food. And Tokyo was number one on our list. We basically put it in the tour so we could eat incredible Japanese food. It is the best in the world. If you like watching documentaries on people making sushi, which I do, who doesn't want to go to Japan?"

In an age of observational comedy, Jimmy is happy to go it alone and tell jokes. He has no axe to grind and just likes making people laugh.

"In this day and age people don't do one-line jokes. There's an American tradition of telling people about their lives. But I don't mean it. It's not like I'm telling jokes but there's a message there. I have no axe to grind. I'm an entertainer. I'm not trying to be a wise man. My thing on controversy is it's an easy story on a slow news day. I never apologise for jokes. At most I've said sorry you're upset. It was a joke! I'm only joking. I'm not making a serious political statement; I'm just making you laugh.

"You have to be respectful of the right to be offended but I will joke about anything as long as the joke is good enough to warrant it. There's got to be a gut-wrenching laugh. My favourite noise in comedy is a laugh followed by an intake of breath. Because a laugh is a reflex. A sharp intake is their conscience saying they shouldn't have laughed at that. The audience regulate comedy in a way that doesn't happen in other art forms. If the audience don't laugh it wasn't even a joke, it was just two sentences strung together. Ultimately they are the arbiters of taste and decency and what's funny."

Jimmy's new show deals with many of the funniest jokes he's ever told and he's perfectly happy to return to that material. He thinks people will enjoy hearing the best gags again – just as rock fans love listening to their favourite band's hits.

"I'm quite an old fashioned comedian in a strange way, because not many people do one liners anymore – not many people do jokes. They might do a long story that's got a lots of laughs along the way and then a big punch line at the end and if you've heard that before, you know where it goes and the surprise is done. But when you're telling three, four gags a minute, I think you can go back. People forget them.

"People tell me my own jokes. It's one of my favourite things: at the end of the show there's always a signing and people kind of go 'I've got one you're going to love' and you go 'Yes – that's from my second DVD!' It's a lovely thing when they live on in someone else's head. It's quite sweet. But I'm not frightened by it because I've sort of been doing best-of shows on the quiet for years – they're called corporates."

Perceptions of Jimmy have changed over the year. Once he was thought of as the dark prince of comedy, an enfant terrible who'd tell scandalous gags. However, opinions towards him have mellowed – even though his material hasn't. He's happy to no longer be in the spotlight – and even happier that he's more successful than ever.

"I'm probably bigger now than I've ever been, but it's less of a story. I can sell lots of tickets, I can play shows, but it's kind of under the radar. But it's when you're on the up and you'll be famous in a year, everyone comes to see you. I think it's because it's almost irritating: 'Who's this new guy? He's come from nowhere!' I was really conscious of this one year, when I was on Channel 4 like four nights a week and people were like 'what?'. Now if I do that, people just go 'oh yeah, course he is.'"

Jimmy's appetite for comedy started at an early age. During his school years, he was part of a gang where the objective was to make one another laugh.

"If you weren't funny at school, you weren't one of our friends. That taught me to handle hecklers. Having a good sense of humour was how you'd be in the group. Everyone was just very, very good. That really has been a lifelong love of mine – taking the piss and knowing where to draw the line. If someone heckles me now I just think, 'OK, here we go. I've been doing this for years!" And though he's now thought of as being one of the hardest working men in showbusiness, in fact, he used to work much harder.

"I really enjoyed working after university in advertising and marketing. I'd tell myself at 16 it is nice to have a relatable and normal life. If you go straight into showbusiness you are never really grateful for how easy it is. And it is really easy. When you start doing comedy it is the first time you are self-employed so you think you are never going to do any more gigs than this – so you do all of them. I remember for the first four years in comedy I was doing upwards of 300 gigs a year. If someone asked me if I wanted to go to Plymouth for £60 I'd say yes. I was paying my dues."

High hopes for Ruth's Pan fantasy

Birmingham Royal Ballet performs the world premiere of Arcadia at Birmingham Hippodrome this month.

The one-act ballet is the first major commission as choreographer for Birmingham Royal Ballet dancer Ruth Brill (pictured), and will be part of a three ballet programme alongside Michael Corder's Le Baiser de la fée and John Cranko's ever-popular Pineapple Poll.

Arcadia was born when BRB director David Bintley mentioned John Harle's music to Ruth. The Tyneside-born musician is probably best known for composing the theme to TV's Silent Witness and for working with Michael Nyman.

After watching her initial work, Bintley commissioned Ruth to choreograph Arcadia. Designed by Birmingham City University student Atena Ameri and accompanied by a striking new score from saxophonist Harle, this new work is centred around the Ancient Greek god Pan and his dual nature, as half-man, half-animal.

The Kent-born ballerina says: "This is an incredible opportunity for me as a young choreographer. It is rare for an artistic director to give an opportunity like this."

"I've learnt so much from David throughout this process and it's an honour to be part of the choreographic legacy of Birmingham Royal Ballet."

Ruth is no stranger to choreographing for diverse projects, both her Rhapsody In Blue and Matryoskha for BRB were memorable, but Arcadia represents her biggest challenge to date.

She says: "This is the first time I've worked with a composer and the collaboration with John Harle has been wonderful. We are also honoured that he will be performing live at every show."

Designer Atena Ameri has taken a year out from her degree at BCU to design the brand-new ballet, after wowing ballet bosses with her exceptional portfolio.

Birmingham Royal Ballet perform family favourite Coppélia from June 13 to 17. Then Arcadia is top of the triple bill from June 21 to 24. See www.brb.org.uk for further details.

Future has arrived with Kraftwerk

No doubt what the gig of the week is, the ultra-rare and long sold out 3D concert by Kraftwerk at Birmingham Symphony Hall on Tuesday.

The appearance by the robotic German synth pioneers is eagerly-awaited by fans of the group, whose melodic minimalist machine music has been highly influential on rock and dance music.

Since Kraftwerk emerged from Düsseldorf in the 70s, singing 'Wir fahren fahren fahren auf der Autobahn', the future they predicted has arrived.

Tributes from AC/DC through to the Big O

MUSICAL tributes are still all the rage. Wolverhampton Grand hosts And Finally... Phil Collins, an 11-piece band celebrating their tenth anniversary performing Phil Collins and Genesis songs, at the Lichfield Street venue on June 18. Over in Bilston at the Robin 2, tomorrow (Friday) The Doors Alive recreate the sound of Jim Morrison and co, then The Dirty DC rock like Aussie legends AC/DC on Saturday. Plus tributes to Slash on June 15 and Whip It outfit Devo on June 16. Novana play Cobain classics at the O2 Academy in Brum on Saturday, and the venue hosts Bat Sabbath, Cancer Bats' tribute to Black Sabbath on Wednesday. That's the same night Mercury: The Ultimate Queen Tribute is at the New Alexandra Theatre, which hosts The Illegal Eagles on June 15 and The Roy Orbison Story on June 16.

A lawyer aiming to put right miscarriages of justice

Who said there aren't enough roles for women of a certain age on TV?

Clearly they haven't been watching the box during the past few years, because this is a golden period for such dramas.

Sarah Lancashire recently won a Bafta for her brilliant performance in the second series of Happy Valley, while her Last Tango in Halifax co-star Nicola Walker has had lead roles in River and Unforgotten. Anna Friel is currently appearing in the BBC's Broken and previous starred in ITV's Marcella.

And then there's Helen McCrory. Although always hugely talented, she's come into her own in recent years, with roles Peaky Blinders, Penny Dreadful, Leaving and now this new, six-part drama.

It's been created and written by Patrick Harbinson, whose previous credits include 24 and Homeland (which starred McCrory's husband, Damian Lewis).

"A few years ago I was asked if I would be interested in writing a drama about a radical lawyer," explains Harbinson. "I said yes – as long as the stories could have a strong political element to them, ie they were set in the grey area where politics and law could collide, and as long as the lawyer in question could be something of a throwback – an 'unreconstructed lefty lawyer', as Michael Gambon's character calls her.

"The result was Emma Banville, played by Helen McCrory. Fearless is about an abuse of justice, Kevin Russell is convicted of murdering 15-year-old Linda Simms in 2003, and an abuse of power – political forces with no obvious connection to the case are determined to ensure Russell's conviction is upheld."

He adds: "If there's a point to this series, beyond what I hope is six entertaining hours of TV, it's that this apparently 'indefensible' person could one day be any of us – just as one day it was Stefan Kiszko, Christopher Jefferies and five Irishmen on a train from Birmingham – and let's hope there's an Emma there to defend us."

"We've seen strong female leads on TV, but Patrick Harbinson has created a character I've never seen before," says McCrory. "A very vulnerable her to the next generation. A woman who really is a pioneer and is finding her own way. A reaction to her own damaged past, but also Emma cares so much about what's happening in the world about her.

"Emma feels alone. She's not part of an establishment. She's not part of a gang. You see her on the street and you see her investigating and trying to find out the truth. That really touched me because I felt this is exactly where the world is at the moment."

McCrory is at the heart and soul of the drama, but she's surrounded by other fine talents, including the aforementioned Gambon, who plays an influential and highly respected academic, Wunmi Mosaku, who takes the role of Olivia Greenwood, who investigated the Linda Simms case, and John Bishop, who has been cast as Emma's partner.

Jonathan Forbes and Helen McCrory star in Fearless, Monday, ITV, 9pm

Park and dine at Weston Grill

A friend runs a Shropshire restaurant. He's earned ratings from The Good Food Guide and AA for a menu that combines the best of seasonal flavour. He's busy, pays good salaries and, you'd expect, he'd have a queue of cooks waiting at the door asking for a job.

The opposite is true. Despite being in one of the county's best locations, despite have extraordinary suppliers and despite being one of the most charming employers in the county, the kitchen seems to have a revolving door. Chefs spin in and out at an alarming rate, wrongly imagining that grass is greener elsewhere.

He suffers from what I call the Fish and Chip Conundrum. His customers love fish and chips – but chefs think they're above such fripperies. They want to dazzle like Heston, rather than fry like The Godfather. Fools – the lot of them.

My friend reasons with them, encouraging them to make their version of the humble chip supper the best in the county. He exhorts them to cook with greater precision, to make sure their seasoning is pinpoint perfect, to create a batter that cracks and crunches with the sound of shattering glass and to triple cook their chips in the beef dripping of wagyu cattle, or something similar. . .

And yet time and again, his chefs give up the ghost because they want to create a pea espuma to serve with a black pepper and pineapple beignet alongside air-dried duck pastrami and spherified white balsamic. Or some such nonsense.

The Granary Grill, at Weston Park, went through a phase where its chefs wrongly imagined they were competing against the county's fine dining elite. And so, for a little while, chefs would over-complicate and add in layers of needless detail when all the customers really wanted was a decent steak, a stunning burger, a banging plate of moules et frites or a luxurious prawn cocktail followed by a sautéed corn-fed chicken breast with garlic mash.

Buns of fun – the Weston burger with fries

Old granary – the impressive historic building

A few years on and the penny seems to have dropped. The Granary Grill menu 2017 is spot on, featuring a mix of tried and tested gastro pub classics – confit duck leg with lentils, twice-baked goat's cheese soufflé, a rib eye steak with hand cut chips – alongside a few dishes that are a little more exotic but do not alienate. There are sides that all would recognise: hand cut chips, cider-battered onion rings, garlic mushrooms, béarnaise sauce and a salad et al. The age of chefs having ideas above their station is well and truly over and instead they appear to have adopted the maxim of my restaurateur friend – people love simple food, so make your version better than anyone else's.

For that's precisely what the Granary Grill does. During a midweek supper, my friend and I were dazzled by two courses that really oughtn't to have been anything special: a prawn cocktail and a humble burger.

Both were memorable and stood out from the crowd – more of which later.

Weston Park seems to be on a mission to make eating out the easiest pursuit known to man. It's user-friendly website is easy to navigate, its online booking service the easiest in town – I booked online and within two hours we were sitting down to eat. Easy peasy lemon cheesey (cake).

Delight
The venue remains a delight. Located on the vast and ever-impressive Weston Park Estate, it's easy to reach,

Spacious three-bed detached has lovely views

Enviably situated and with magnificent panoramic distant views, 31 Sunningdale Road, Northway, Sedgley, is a spacious extended three-double-bedroomed detached residence.

On a fine corner/wedge-shaped plot butting onto open fields, it is for sale through Taylors at £290,000.

The property has been comprehensively modernised by the current owners in very recent years, with the selling agents particularly emphasizing its stunning 16'4" x 15'10" dining kitchen with an extensive range of units, the spacious 19'8 living/dining room with a substantial conservatory beyond, a re-appointed bathroom together with replacement UPVC double glazed windows, a new central heating boiler/radiators etc.

The front door opens to the reception hall with original wood block flooring, a staircase with a handrail to the first floor and panel effect doors and a re-appointed cloakroom/WC with laminate flooring off. The L-shaped through living room includes a dining room section to the front with original wood-strip flooring, opening through to the lounge section with French doors to the conservatory, a polished marble over mantle with a living flame feature gas fire.

The conservatory has extensive panoramic, blue-tinted roofing panels and laminate flooring. The magnificent dining kitchen is the 'hub of the house'.

Having panoramic distant views, it has an extensive range of 'high gloss cream' finish wall and base units incorporating an island section, black roll edge work surfaces, tiled splash-backs, a 'Belling' gas/electric range with an extractor hood above and an integrated dishwasher.

The former garage is now subdivided into a utility room and a store. Off the first floor landing with a pull down loft ladder, bedroom one includes two sets of free-standing wardrobes. Bedroom two also includes free-standing wardrobes and cupboards and there is a third double bedroom. The rear garden is in a large wedge shape, having 180-degree distant views, an extensive riven-faced slabbed patio running the full width of the property and projecting into the garden with rope hand rail. There are also four established apple trees and a cherry tree and a garden shed.

OUR FLEXIBILITY IS YOUR MOTABILITY 35

Changes to the Disabled Living Allowance can seem daunting but we are here to make things clearer

Black Country Vauxhall is an award-winning group of four local family-run Vauxhall dealerships; comprising of T Wall Vauxhall in Kingswinford, Dudley Motor Company, Stourbridge Motor House and Halesowen Motor House.

As a group we've become concerned that many disabled people are missing out on having a car through the Motability scheme simply because they don't know much about it, or they think they're not eligible. Confusion is being compounded as the Disabled Living Allowance (DLA) is replaced by Personal Independent Payments (PIP).

So who is eligible?

Motability is available to people who have a wide range of physical or cognitive disabilities and receive the higher rate mobility component of the DLA, or the enhanced rate Mobility component of PIP. It may be that it's physically difficult to get out and about, or it might be difficult to plan or carry out a journey due to a learning or cognitive disability.

What's included?

What we want to do for you...

Our aim is to be open, approachable and knowledgeable, so that even if you're not sure if you are eligible, you can speak to our friendly specialists and we'll find out for you. It's really quick and easy, and might just give you, or someone you care for, the independence that only a car can offer.

Our specialists are more than happy to talk you through the scheme and find out if you're eligible. They will be by your side with expert knowledge and support throughout your whole Motability experience.

Company Director Ali Grieveson explains, "As a family-run business our aim has always been to live up to the Motability motto of 'Worry Free Motoring'. From now the Škoda Superb and Škoda Superb Estate will be rolled out with numerous innovations. These include automatic emergency call as additional security – and comfort features, and extended connectivity solutions.

● Care Connect with automatic emergency call
With the new model year, the Superb saloon and estate come with Care Connect as standard from Ambition trim upwards – regardless of the choice of infotainment system.

The most important feature of the Care Connect is the automatic emergency call, which is activated following an accident if a restraint system has been triggered. The vehicle establishes a voice and data connection to an emergency call centre and transmits all the necessary data. The emergency call can also be initiated manually via a button in the roof module.

In addition, remote access to the vehicle is now possible via the Škoda Connect App. The smartphone can inform the driver, among other things, whether the windows and doors are closed or the lights are off. The parking position function shows the location of the vehicle, the "Honk & Flash" function makes it easier to find the car by activating the horn and hazard lights.

Chrome strips are now available

● Infotainment: 9.2" screen in the glass design and SmartLink+

Numerous functions can now be operated with optimised infotainment systems for the Superb. The display of the Columbus navigation system has grown from 8 to 9.2 inches and the system Swing from 5 to 6.5 inches. In addition, the glass design enhances the high-resolution displays.

With the SmartLink+ system on board, the Superb now offers additional possibilities for networking between the vehicle and smartphone. SmartLink+ brings navigation, infotainment and communication apps from the mobile phone into the car and also provides vehicle data for the evaluation on the smartphone.

● Driver assistance systems: Park Distance Control
The Superb helps to avoid dents while parking, which is ensured by the Park Distance Control system with extended function Manoeuvre Assist – this now also detects obstacles in front of the vehicle. The system not only warns the driver with optical and acoustic signals but also brakes the vehicle automatically if necessary.

● Driver's seat with a massage function, improved communication climate and noise level
As a comfortable travelling vehicle for the whole family, the character of the car has been further strengthened with new equipment features. The optional massage function for the driver's seat, which is available with the electrically adjustable variant, including ventilation and memory function, ensures increased comfort on long distances. Also the communication among occupants is improved with Digital Voice Enhancement, which transmits the driver's and front passenger's voice to the passengers in the rear via a microphone in the cockpit. Additional improvements also contribute to lower noise levels – the front side windows are newly available with an acoustic film between the two glass surfaces.

● Design
The new design of the 19-inch light-alloy Acamar rims underscores the elegant appearance of the top model. In addition, the revised Superb can be ordered later this year in a new elegant car body metallic colour Velvet Red.
Chrome strips on side buffers and doors and a black interior ceiling will be available for the L&K equipment version making the refined top version of Škoda's flagship even more impressive.

Renault breathes new life into Captur

By Jack Evans

The Captur was Europe's best-selling urban crossover in 2016 with 215,670 units sold, which makes it a crucial model for Renault. As such, the French manufacturer has breathed new life into the distinctive-looking car to further increase its appeal, adding touches such as LED running lights and a wider choice of alloy wheels, as well as new skid plates to highlight its 'go anywhere' looks.

Overall, the changes are subtle but bring the car's looks closer into line with those of the current Kadjar and upcoming Koleos. However, you'll find no changes to the engine line-up here, with the familiar 1.2-litre petrol and 1.5-litre diesel units making up the range.

The current crop of crossovers are quirky-looking vehicles, and the Captur is no different. You'll have to look closely to notice the difference between this latest car and the one it replaces, but try hard and you'll notice C-shaped LED daytime running lights at the front and updated LED light units at the rear. As previously mentioned, new skidplates now feature at the front and back of the Captur, and there's a great variety of colours to pick from, too.

Inside, the changes are similarly subtle. A fixed glass sunroof is now available on cars in Dynamique S trim levels and above, while higher-quality plastics have been used on larger areas such as the dashboard. Top-end spec cars get a leather-trimmed steering wheel, too. These changes do make the difference, as the cabin feels distinctly more premium than that found in the previous generation – but the effect is not what we'd call groundbreaking.

The Captur remains an impressively spacious car. The front seats offer plenty

At the rear there are updated LED lights of shoulder room, while those in the back are equally well catered for. Thanks to large windows, it also feels quite airy, though darker coloured upholstery does somewhat go against this.

There's 377 litres of boot space, and this is aided by plenty of in-car storage too. Deep door bins are ideal for water bottles, while cupholders in the centre of the car's cabin are equally as useful.

The Captur delivers a surprisingly involving drive. The 1.2-litre petrol engine fitted to our test car was nippy and ideal for urban driving, but you need to work the gearbox to make consistent progress. However, that gearbox doesn't have the most pleasant of actions, and lacks the accuracy that you'll find in competitors' 'boxes. The ride isn't too firm, and deals with lumps and bumps in the road well.

The Captur's steering is very light, but this makes it well suited to urban driving as it allows for quick changes of direction and immediate turns.

Our test car came in at £19,095 and featured a full infotainment system, air conditioning

There are C-shaped LED daytime running lights at the front and a multifunction steering wheel. The car's interior plastics have been heavily reworked, and because of this feel far more high-end than those found in the previous car. That said, those materials lower down the cabin aren't as good, and are now more noticeable because of the soft-touch plastics used on the dashboard. The infotainment system lacks the precision that is found in rival systems, and the satellite navigation can be slow to adjust. However, the Bose stereo fitted to our car was impressive, and produced a premium sound.

The Captur is ideal for those people who want economical, low-frills motoring at a competitive price. This facelift has been a rather light one, but the changes that have been made only help to add to the Captur's appeal. However, it has a tough fight on its hands to deal with competition from the likes of the Toyota CH-R or Citroen C4 Cactus. Emissions: 125g/km

Fundraisers saddle up to help hospice

AROUND a dozen people are saddling up to raise money for Mary Stevens Hospice in Stourbridge next week. Cyclists from across the country will converge on Wolverhampton, for the start of a one-day, 106-mile charity ride from the city out to Aberdovey, Wales.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the annual at the annual Aberdovey Cycling Challenge and the number taking part on behalf of the hospice is the biggest representation the charity has ever had.

As well as the popular one-day event next Friday (June 16), there is also a four-day challenge, beginning on Tuesday (13) which takes cyclists on a route covering more than 400 miles from Wolverhampton to Aberdovey, via Snowdonia. The hospice will have a team representing them in this challenge, who go under the collective name of Team Fablass 5.

Charlotte Schofield, head of fundraising at Mary Stevens Hospice, said: "We're so grateful to our supporters for dedicating so much time and effort to help support us through this event."

"I want to pay special mention to the team taking on the four-day challenge. We're so privileged that they would choose to do something like this for us."

Boxer Paz to address fans at sports bar

BOXING fans can meet legend of the sport Vinny Paz in Cannock later this month.

Formerly known as Vinny Pazienza, the five-time lightweight and middleweight champion of the world is the inspiration for the 2016 hit film Bleed For This, which is based on his comeback from a spinal injury.

The American fighter, aged 54, appears at Bar Sport's Premier Suite, in High Green, for an after-dinner speech and question and answer session on Wednesday, June 21.

Tickets start from £45 with VIP packages available. A five-course meal will be served, plus there will be entertainment from a comedian and a memorabilia auction.

'Paz' will also be available for photographs with fans.

Doors open at 7pm. Call the ticket hotline on 01543 572092 or email info@premier-suite.co.uk for more details.

He will be the latest in a long line of big name boxers to have appeared at the venue in recent years. Others include Evander Holyfield, Chris Eubank, Sugar Ray Leonard, Roberto Duran, Nigel Benn, Carl Froch, Carl Frampton and Joe Calzaghe.

Frustration as injury rules Woakes out

GREAT Barr's Chris Woakes has spoken of his frustration after he was ruled out of the Champions Trophy with a side strain.

The 28-year-old Warwickshire all-rounder sustained the injury during his two-over spell in England's opening eight-wicket win over Bangladesh at The Oval last Thursday.

The England and Wales Cricket Board confirmed the following morning that the key seamer would play no further part in the tournament.

"It's really frustrating," said Woakes, who has been replaced by Steven Finn. "It's a tough one to take, right at the start of a tournament which we have been building up to as a team for a while."

"I finished two overs but it was probably on the third or fourth ball of the second over that it felt like something had become tight in my side," Woakes added. "I managed to finish the over but by the last ball I knew that something really wasn't right. To a certain extent, it felt like someone was sticking a knife in my side."

Woakes now faces a race against time to be fit for the Test series against South Africa, which begins at Lord's on July 6.

McAuley bags kick-off role at tournament

WEDNESBURY Cricket Club swapped stumps for goalposts to help a new Black Country football tournament get up and running.

The Fourbury Mini Soccer Tournament – named after co-organisers Four Oaks Football Club and Wednesbury Cricket Club – attracted more than 300 youngsters from all over the region with Albion star Gareth McAuley kicking off proceedings.

After taking on the lease at Wood Green Road as the former sports union disbanded, Wednesbury have been keen to attract more grassroots sports action.

And Wednesbury CC chairman Craig Cartwright declared the event a huge success.

"For the first one we've hosted it was absolutely more successful than we could've hoped," he said. "You learn from your first events and tweak things for the future but we're already planning for more events."

Weather

"It was brilliant that the facility was being used and everyone was enjoying themselves. We want to thank the council for helping us, including Elaine Costigan and Peter Hughes who have been great."

"We want it used by as many people as possible. The weather definitely helped the event but I think everybody would've turned up to play in the rain."

Around 40 teams competed across the under-six and under-seven age groups and Four Oaks, based in Sutton Coldfield and with more than half of their 21 teams featuring in the Walsall League, hailed their host's input.

"A venue like this is very much lacking in Sutton Coldfield and we were very pleased with the spread of teams. It shows the draw that football has," said Scott Ratcliffe, chairman of Four Oaks. "You had Black Country teams and teams from as far afield as Northfield and also Atherstone. I think the success has been very good and it will spur us on into next year to see how we can improve and grow it."

The chairman reserved praise for the standard of the Walsall League, which carries teams from under-seven through to under-18s.

He added "We've fielded 12 teams in the Walsall League and I would say that the organisation and competitiveness has been absolutely A1. I think the league have to get a pat on the back for everything."

"They've made it not just enjoyable, but easy for people to manage teams, turn up and play football. They've chosen great venues and have done a fantastic job."

Solihull's Olton Ravens won a 3-2 thriller against Cannock side FC Newlands in the under-sevens, while Newlands took home the under-six title, beating Oldbury outfit Brandhall Colts in the final.

Albion ace McAuley, whose seven-year-old son Bobby plays for Four Oaks in the Walsall League, joined hundred of parents and families cheering from the sidelines. He said: "When I was starting out it was only the school team and then county team. A lot of grassroots was missed out."

Skipper left stranded in second loss

STOURBRIDGE will be ruing not sustaining the pressure on Worcester Nomads' batsmen after containing the run rate to two runs an over in the first 20 overs, and failing to reach a modest target of four runs per over for victory.

Losing two matches on the trot, Stour slip to fifth in division three of the Birmingham and District League.

Winning the toss Stour skipper Josh Banks decided to field first. His bowlers did him proud as Worcester could only muster up 100-3 off 37 overs.

But then Ollie Ranscombe (72 off 63 balls) and Richard Henry (52 off 54 balls) changed the course of the game, by doubling the run rate and they ended on 227-4.

Stour's reply was marred by the loss of five wickets by the 18th over with just 100 runs on the board.

The wickets of opener Harshad Patel (20) and Richard Bradley (0) fell with the score of 48. Richard Henry accounted for the other opener Alex Bingham (6), Juhar Johal (5) and Zain Ul Hassan (10).

A captain's innings of 73 not out from Banks offered a lifeline, supported by Matt Bradley (16) and Jade Richter (26).

The final wicket partnership between Banks and Dominic O'Reilly of 29 made the chase an interesting watch. O'Reilly was caught off Cameron Blakey for 13 with Stour still requiring 39 off 24 deliveries, but Banks was left stranded as Stour closed on 188, Stour host Newport on Saturday, starting at noon. Stourbridge 3rd XI top their division with five wins and a drawn match.

In the Birmingham League division one, Himley climbed up to fifth with victory at Barnards Green. Adam Finch (3-32) and Stuart Wedge (3-33) polished off Barnards Green for 154 before Tom Kohler-Cadmore (56) and Chris Boroughs (41no) steered Himley to an eight-wicket victory.

Pears legends to take field as club marks 175th year

A HOST of Worcestershire cricket legends will take on Stourbridge next month as the High Street club marks its 175th anniversary.

The likes of Richard Stemp, Gareth Andrew, Martin Weston and Paul Pridgen will line up for the Legends XI on July 5 from 1.30pm. In the evening, a Stourbridge Representative XI will take on Worcestershire 1st XI in a T20 clash.

On July 7, current Stourbridge players will take on Stourbridge legends of the 1980s to complete an historic week.

Celebrations will kick off with Stourbridge taking on the MCC on Tuesday, July 4 in a one-day match from 11.30am.

Stourbridge chairman Harilal Jivan-Patel said: "We are very grateful to Mark Asbourne who has organised the cricket week. Our players are looking forward to taking part in this unique event to mark club's 175th anniversary."

Entry to the Wednesday games is £5 for adults, £2 for eight-to-18-year-olds.

A two-course meal will be available on request at £25 per person from 12.30pm to 2.30pm. To book the meal call Liz on 07870 963676.

King of track relives days with Heathens

Lance King in action for Cradley Heathens

LANCE King, a firm favourite with Heathens fans during three glittering seasons with the club, will be special guest at Halesowen Cricket Club on Thursday, June 29 – two days before leading the USA into World Cup action at King's Lynn.

King was part of the all-conquering 1983 Cradley side and finished third in the world a year later when Dudley Wood hero Erik Gundersen took top spot. He will answer questions about his time at the club as well as the rest of his career along with previewing the World Cup campaign.

Said King: "This is something I've been looking to do for some time, it's well over 30 years since

Speedway

I last met up with Cradley fans and I can't wait. The Cradley fans were and still are No.1 in my book and the support and following was amazing for the whole team."

The news follows the announcement of four-time World Champion Greg Hancock coming to the Cleveland Arms, Wolverhampton, on July 20. Tickets for both events will be on sale from the Cradley track shop, Printworx in Cradley Heath market area, from tomorrow (Friday) or online at sportstalevents.co.uk via paypal.

THREE SIGN ON FOR GLASSBOYS

STOURBRIDGE FC boss Gary Hackett has recruited three new signings as preparations intensify for the new football season.

The Glassboys have swooped for 24-year old central midfielder Aaron Forde who arrives from league rivals Rushall Olympic.

Forde was previously in the youth ranks at Walsall and since his release in 2011, he has seen service with the likes of Stratford Town, Halesowen Town and Sutton Coldfield Town before spending one season at Rushall. He is seen as a strong, combative player who is comfortable on the ball and a good organiser.

Hackett's second new signing is 21-year-old left-back Bobby Moseley, who has represented the Republic of Ireland at under-17 and under-19 level. Birmingham born, he was in the Blues academy system before joining Stoke City in 2015. He was freed a year later and last season he had short spells with Solihull Moors, Southport and Gloucester City.

Favourite

The latest arrival at Amblecote is 27-year-old attack-minded midfielder Danny O'Callaghan, who has been snapped up from Sutton Coldfield Town. He can also play in the 'number 10' role off the main striker and he notched twice against the Glassboys last season in different games. O'Callaghan chalked up 133 appearances in two spells with Sutton, where he was a fans' favourite, either side of a brief move to AFC Telford in the summer of 2015.

The Glassboys have been further boosted with news that two of last season's stalwarts have re-signed. Central defender Jack Duggan, who scored the winner against Northampton Town in the FA Cup last December, has agreed to return, along with ex-Walsall, Sheffield United and Kilmarnock full-back Darryl Westlake.

Hackett said: "We are continuing to talk with our targets and working hard to get the people we want. As well as bringing in Aaron, Bobby and Danny this week, we've also been talking to last year's players and are close to announcing more of those who have agreed to stay with us."

Kane feels able to make the cut

Kane Baker ready to pack a punch at The Venue in Dudley tomorrow night

KANE Baker is feeling light on his feet as he prepares to lace on the pro gloves again in Dudley tomorrow night (Friday).

The Brummie welterweight, from Bartley Green, is back in action at the Venue, taking on Yorkshireman Danny Little over four rounds.

The 26-year-old reckons he will make the 147lb cut easily, after staying in decent shape since his last contest at the same venue in April. Baker made it three points wins without reply when he defeated Yaddollah Ghasemi.

Baker said: "I want to go up the levels by testing myself, training has gone well and I was a lot lighter than normal to begin with, so I've been able to concentrate on technique more."

A six-round contest between a big-punching Polish heavyweight Krzysztof Kosela and Stockport southpaw Chris Healey has been added to the bill and will act as chief support.

The main event has also been subject to change, with unbeaten 'Ruthless' Rowley Regis fighter Tyler Denny, aged 25, facing a new opponent for the British Challenge middleweight title because of Mike Byles' injury. Denny will now face Anthony Fox.

The under-card will see four-round action for Les Byfield, Kane Baker, Shaun Cooper and CJ Challenger. Tickets start at £35 on 07976 283 157 or from any of the home boxers on Facebook.

Ace Bardsley nets success at the treble

STOURBRIDGE teenager Charlotte Bardsley is proving to be a table tennis smash after landing three national titles and impressing for England.

The 14-year-old, who attends Heathfield School in Kidderminster, won the Cadet singles, doubles and team events at the Cadet & Junior National Championships – and also took a Junior mixed doubles silver and singles bronze.

Heathfield School pupil Bardsley started by winning the team event with Burton Uxbridge, alongside Megan Gidney and Mollie Patterson, by defeating Ackworth School 3-2 in the final, with all three players winning one match each. She and Gidney then lived up to billing as top seeds in the girls' doubles by defeating Alice Dillon and Darce Proud 3-0 in the final.

The partners became opponents in the singles final and top seed Bardsley made it a treble on the day by winning 4-0 (12-10, 11-7, 11-5, 12-10).

Bardsley said: "Megan's a really great doubles partner, we have great chemistry, so it was hard to play the final against her. She's a good friend but I managed to win it."

"We won the team event last year so it's good to reclaim the title. Megan really sealed the win and Mollie's win was crucial, so it was a good team effort."

After her success on home soil, Bardsley headed to Europe and reached the quarter-finals of both the Cadet Girls' Singles and Doubles at the Spanish Junior & Cadet Open, in Platja d'Aro.
